Pentoxifylline for Leg Ulcers

Sir

My colleagues and I are in the process of updating the Cochrane review 'Pentoxifylline for treating venous leg ulcers'. We are eager to incorporate the results of all randomised controlled trials so that clinicians can be accurately informed about the effect of pentoxifylline. Several sources have informed us of the existence of an unpublished negative trial. Unfortunately, we have been unable to locate the results of this study or identify the principal investigator. The trial was conducted in the 1980s, with sites in Austria and possibly Denmark. We would be grateful if any readers with information that could assist us in obtaining the trial results would contact us via email (a.jull@ctr.u.auckland.ac.nz) or by writing to us at the address below. Thank you.
